

Parliamentary Leaders Plead For Supporters

Prime Minister Kelloway Confident as Mock Parliament Approaches — Opposition Leader Prepares to Attack Reciprocity With U.S.A. — Union Ballroom Scene of First Session Tomorrow — Floor Will be Thrown Open For Discussion as All Invited

THE campaign to determine Canada's future relationship with the United States is rapidly approaching its culmination, and both parties are lining up adherents, either favouring or opposing the resolution "That the salvation of Canada lies in close economic co-operation with the United States," which will be introduced at tomorrow's session of the mock Parliament by Prime Minister E. C. Kelloway. This session of Parliament will convene in the Union Ballroom at 8.15 tomorrow evening.

The motion will be opposed by the Honourable Allan Anderson, the Leader of the anti-Government party, Kenneth C. Baker, President of the Debating Union, will act as Speaker, with Philip F. Vineberg, Secretary of the Debating Union, as Clerk of the House.

Speakers Listed
As no cabinet has been chosen, all men students present are invited to contribute their views to the subject under discussion. Among those who have already signified their intention of taking part in the discussion are Doug MacIntyre, Ted Piper, Charles Wayland, Henry Schaffhausen, Don Black, Edmund Gordon, Sol Levites, John Kerr, Morton Godine, and Syd Friedman.

The executive is particularly anxious that a large attendance of both male and female students should be present. It was observed that while the attendance of outsiders at last year's Mock Parliaments was considerable, there was a marked deficiency of students. On this account the entire body of old and new students is invited to be in attendance.

Campaign Commences
Scaramouche Trois Mousquetaires, Quebec — (Special to The McGill Daily) — "We need their dough, and we gotta get their dough!" shouted the Right Honourable E. C. Kelloway, Prime Minister, as his whirlwind campaign entered its dying phases. His government stands to rise or fall at the coming Mock Parliament. The capacity audience arose as one man, and re-echoed the chorus. Cigars were handed to all, including the women.

Oskash, Wis., U.S.A. — The Honourable Allan Anderson continued his anti-Government and anti-U.S.A. campaign with a violent speech here last night, in which he said: "Beware of the insidious American infiltration. Kelloway is skirting with the truth when he affirms that our economic future lies with the United States. I urge you loyal Canadians to support our national integrity!" When informed that he had inadvertently been addressing an American audience, Anderson immediately launched into an attack on the N.R.A., stating that it was the tariff barriers that were hampering trade relations with Canada.

Ottawa, Ont. — The Honourable Kenneth G. Baker, Speaker of the House, when interviewed last night by representatives of the Press, stated that a special detachment of the R. C. M. P. would be stationed in the Ballroom on Thursday evening. "It is not unlikely that the Honourable Prime Minister and the Leader of the Opposition will come to blows over the issue. The Prime Minister is incensed at Mr. Anderson's suggestion that Newfoundland be not included in the projected agreement." It was further reported that the race-bearer, P. F. Vineberg, had been provided with a bullet proof vest. "I am against all vested interests," he declared, in accepting the gift.

Philosophers Meet

Society Will Hear Talk On Knowledge

The Philosophical Club holds its first meeting at eight o'clock tonight in Strathcona Hall. To those who are unfamiliar with the method of procedure, the meetings take the form of informal discussions. The subject under discussion for the evening will be "Does the Acquisition of Knowledge Make for a Happier Living?" Morton Bloomfield, President of the Club, will open the discussion by the method in which he will attempt to show that the acquisition of knowledge does not make for happiness, that the two are entirely different, and that one can have no influence on the other. All old members and anyone interested in philosophical problems are invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

First House Dance In McGill Union Next Friday Night

THE McGill Union House, scene of many functions, will once again provide students of the University with an opportunity for a social gathering. This Friday night at 8.30, the Union House Committee begins with an informal dance, the season which they have promised will be replete with activity.

Is Aspler has returned to his former occupation, that of furnishing music at University and other affairs, and his eight piece orchestra will be present in full force.

By way of departure from precedent, refreshments will not be served in cabaret style, as last year, but at a sit-down supper on the lower floor. The dance hall and all places set aside for the use of those attending will be decorated with the banners and colours of many of the Canadian universities.

Tickets have been put on sale at all buildings on the campus at one dollar a couple. Sales to date according to the secretary have been most satisfactory and it is hoped that as usual the dance floor will have a capacity crowd.

Political Economists To Discuss N. R. A.

THE discoveries of the Stevens Commission have focused attention on the desirability and possibility of a National Recovery Act in Canada; and accordingly, the Political Economy Club at its first meeting on Thursday, October 25, will concentrate on the subject "The American N.R.A. in Retrospect; A Canadian N.R.A. in Prospect." There will be two addresses, of which the first is to be given by Alfred Pick, Arts '36; and the second by Alfred Zimmerman, Arts '35.

In view of the fact that the N.R.A. is at present being reorganized in the United States, it has come in for criticism, both favorable and unfavorable, at the present time. The establishment of a similar system in Canada is a policy now being debated.

Members of the Faculty will be present, and Dr. Leacock, Honorary President, is expected to speak. All students of Economics, and others interested are invited to attend. There will be refreshments served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Changing Courses

According to an announcement made by the Registrar's Office, Saturday, October 20th, is the last day for changing courses in the Faculty of Arts and Science.

Career Of Scottish Journalist Depicted By His Grandfather

Rev. H. Miller Mackay Addressed St. James Literary Society

TRADE UNIONS OPPOSED

Was Author of Many Books On Religion And Philosophy

The life and work of Hugh Miller distinguished Scottish geologist, poet, newspaper editor, and man of letters, formed the subject of an address given last night by his grandson, the Reverend H. Miller Mackay, of Lewis, Quebec, at a meeting of the St. James Literary Society, the topic of the descriptive talk being, "A Typical Scot."

Born in 1796, Miller's ancestors had been Scandinavian and Celtic; thus his was a nature full of wanderlust and love of adventure, and of dream-like poetry. Willful, truant and stubborn, he hated the local grammar school, and despite the pleas of his uncles, refused to go on. At seventeen, he became an apprentice to a stone mason.

Became Editor

For the next twelve years stated the speaker, Miller travelling all over the country, seeing and studying nature and men; but he never lost hope of eventually adopting a literary career. In 1835 he became editor of "The Witness," and in this position was the center of a religious and political controversy that threatened to split the ranks in the Scottish Kirk, and even in the nation itself. It was a question whether the secular authorities would be permitted to interfere in the church. Miller resolutely set his face against this interference, writing articles after article to that effect, and influencing tremendously public opinion.

A passionate lover of social justice, he was "like Robert Burns, scathing in his denunciation of herding people into miserable huts," in order that the profits of the gentleman farmer might be raised. On the other hand he resolutely opposed the policy of the trade union leaders who were then coming into prominence, saying that they were trouble-makers, would incur the enmity of the Authorities and so harm, rather than help, the cause of the humble, lowly worker.

An agnostic in his youth, as he him-

The executive has made many plans for the coming year, and it is expected that there will be a good turnout of newcomers at this informal.

MacKinnon, and Gordon McLeod Pitts, who was in the chair. Reports for last year were presented.

Dental Society To Publish Magazine As Official Organ

Dean Arthur L. Walsh Addresses Undergraduate Meeting Informally

AT A MEETING of the McGill Dental Undergraduate Society held last night in the Medical Building, it was decided to publish a magazine to serve as the official organ of the Faculty. Nominated to the committee to make preparations were: Isadore Hyams, Sully Koop, Philip Gittick, Arthur Walford and Arthur Knittle. The magazine will be run along lines similar to those followed by the "Harvard Record."

Dean Arthur L. Walsh addressed the meeting informally, greeting the freshmen present and introducing them to the members of the society. The Dean presented a pointed speech on the advantages to be obtained by full participation in student activities, and appealed to the student body to participate in as many activities as their arduous course permits.

Internes Address Meeting

Dr. Russell Ward dental interne at the Children's Memorial Hospital, and Dr. Herman Harris, interne at the Montreal General Hospital, addressed the meeting briefly and greeted the freshmen students warmly. They, too, advised the students to take a real

The schedule of the English speakers is as follows: St. John's, Newfoundland, October 19; Halifax, October 23; Wolfville, N.S., October 25; Sackville, N.B., October 29; Fredericton, October 31; Lennoxville, Que., November 2; Montreal, November 5; Ste. Anne, Que., November 7; Kingston, November 9; Toronto, November 13; Hamilton, November 15; Winnipeg, November 20; Saskatoon, November 22; Edmonton, November 27; Vancouver, November 30; Victoria, December 3; Calgary, December 5; Regina, December 7.

In the debate in Montreal to be held in Moyse Hall, Melbourne Doig and Philip Vineberg will uphold the affirmative of the Resolution, "Liberalism, though it yet speaketh, is dead." Tickets for this event will be on sale shortly at the price of 25 cents by the McGill Debating Union.

Don Young Voices Opinion From Maternity Ward

"Brother, Can You Spare A Dame" Is Cry

Although those popular personages who have no difficulties in finding dates are apparently not interested, yet, according to interviews last night, the general consensus of opinion is that the proposed Date Bureau will fill a long-wanted need at the University. For example, according to Don Young who voiced his opinion over the phone from the Maternity Ward of the Royal Victoria Hospital, it offers a good opportunity to new students. However he admits that he has been too busy in the last few days to notice any happenings.

Only the males, however, seem to approve. Jean Harvey, Edythe Walbridge and Gertrude Cooke were all heartily in disfavor. The first claimed that blind dates usually turn out for the worse, while the second said "It may be a very good idea, but there is too much chance of dating a prune." Gertrude Cooke believed that there are other organizations on the campus which would fulfil the purpose more wisely.

Secretary Speaks

John H. McDonald, Secretary of the Union, was also persuaded (with little difficulty) to give his opinions. "A very fine thing," he told your reporter. "It gives the freshmen a chance to meet someone to bring to the Union Informals" (adv.) Ken Baker, President of the Debating Union, agreed, but with qualifications. "An excellent idea, providing a deposit is charged for good behavior, but to be forfeited only on production of witnesses." Johnny Nolan, finally tired on the roof of the Law Building, said "I'm not interested, but my phone number is Atlantic 222."

Lorne Gales and Mary V. Hamilton, Presidents of the Students' Society and the Women's Union respectively, both refused to be quoted, and maintained a strict silence. Morton W. Bloomfield, President of the English Literature Society, was not so reticent. In fact, he overwhelmed your reporter with words some of which were: "In my researches in the Eskimo and Bantu civilizations I have found that all Eskimos and Bantu universities have a Date Bureau. Surely McGill should have a Date Bureau. I approve heartily of the institution. I hope it is conducted upon the same lines as the Date Bureau at the University of Kayak, with which I am intimately connected."

McParfootin Interviewed

A brilliant idea then struck your reporter. He would interview McParfootin, the demon scribe. After looking through the lowest dives in the city he finally located him in the Union. The interview was carried on through the keyhole of a locked door in the basement of that building. The young iconoclast gave tongue to his views with great fervor. "I wouldn't give a damn for the Date Bureau," he announced spontaneously, after thinking for thirty minutes.

But freshmen too have opinions, and your reporter finally decided to see if he could extort one. After working for a half hour to extract Ferdinand Wilburforce Frobbisher from the clutches of his Gladys, he was successful enough to wring out the following: "A Date Bureau will be an excellent innovation, although I fear that unless

Our Besetting Sin

THERE is a certain something about the word procrastination that denotes its very meaning; it is a kind of long drawn out, drawly word, that lingers on the lip. There is a temptation to dally round with it — it exerts a fatal attraction very much akin to the effect, the well known apple of biblical fame exercised upon the fickle Eve.

If the meaning of the word is not yet clear, let us hasten to explain it. Do you ever say to yourself, when faced with some unpleasant but necessary duty, "Oh I'll do that tomorrow." There you have the meaning of the word procrastinate... in short to put off, defer, delay, lay over, suspend, shift, stave-off, retard, postpone, adjourn, procrastinate, dally, prolong, protract, spin-draw, lengthen-out; pro-rogue, keep back, tide over, push-drive, to the last; let the matter stand over, reserve, temporize, consult one's pillow, sleep on it. There is what can come from one simple word. Who would have thought, when you said I'll do that tomorrow, that you were committing all those sins.

Procrastination is an insidious sin. It creeps up on us all unaware, till to and behold we suddenly find ourselves enmeshed in its folds. From childhood we have dined into us, "Never put off till tomorrow, what you can do today," but it is so easy to forget; so easy to save our consciences by intending to do tomorrow, what we should do today.

All of us remember the fable about the frog and his companions, who the summer being very dry, were in search of water and came across a well full of beautiful clear water; he at once jumped in, and the water being exceedingly deep, was left to swim until exhausted, while his companion watched him from dry land with a pitying eye. That is the fate which awaits the procrastinator; he puts off without thinking, just as the frog jumped without thinking, and first thing he knows, he is left, always trying, "just to catch up."

Heigho for the advantages of the word procrastinate, for this editorial which should have been done before is just done now. That which was a sin, has been turned into a virtue.

True Education

THE academic session is now well under way, and no doubt the majority of students have acclimatized themselves to the atmosphere and conditions of Old McGill. Men and women from every corner of the globe have congregated here, and one and all they are seeking scholastic perfection. But what of their social and physical development.

Dr. A. L. Walsh, Acting-Dean of the Faculty of Dentistry, at a meeting of the Dental Undergraduate Society last night, sounded a timely thought when he urged his students to participate in as many activities as possible. He emphasized the necessity of social and physical development and correlated these two factors with that of scholastic training.

The Faculty of Dentistry in McGill has passed into a new era of activity. With the progress that Dr. Walsh has made as Acting-Dean, and with the experience he has acquired as a teacher and educational leader, there is no doubt but that the student can benefit by following the doctor's advice.

The acquisition of a university education is of course the chief aim of everyone here. Courses are planned at great length and much time and effort are involved in their selection. Nevertheless, where social and physical development are concerned, they are made to fit into the scheme of things in as haphazard a manner as possible. The average student will not outline for himself these activities as he does with his academic courses, in spite of the fact that these are equally important factors which will mould him and prepare him for his post-university life.

Moderation is a virtue, and extremes must, of course, be avoided. There is as much danger of indulging in too much academic activity as in the partaking of too much social and sport events. It is the judicious combination of these that make up a well-rounded education.

Students in other faculties will do well to follow Dr. Walsh's advice. His words apply not only to members of the Faculty of Dentistry but to everyone enrolled at McGill. Seek out the activities for which you are best fitted, combine them with the academic factors, and only then will you have the right to a university degree, are our words of counsel to the student.

PANEGYRICUS

By McParlfootin.

Ho Hum.

WE HAVE been told that the Debating Union is on the rampage again. The first big game of the season is against the Oxbidge-Cambford squad. The subject: "Democracy, though it still speaketh, is dead." Dear me! Are those darling little tongue-twiddlers of ours at it again? Are we to have Democracy and Fascism thrash in our teeth for yet another season? Ah me! Pity that the snow will not be with us for yet a while (unless the weather-man crosses up my prediction), and so I'm afraid we'll have to purchase our own missiles, to wit—tomatoes and hen fruit, of bewhiskered vintage. Unless past experience misleads, we are in for another winter spell of hot air. And may the devil take the hindmost, for the Debating Union, though it is dead, still speaketh!

Re Assassinations

EUROPE, the darling mother of our world's cliché keeps providing us with delightful object lessons in how to get out of political difficulties. The accepted method of polishing off politicians are unpopular, by way of climbing on moving cars and pumping the victim full of lead, thus lighting fuses for shots that are heard round the world, gives us ample food for thought. Assassination—what a ducky word! It all goes to show that we can still learn a good deal from our dear old mother of culture.

After all, that old institution of the ballot should be discarded. For the X we are obliged to mark on a bit of paper beside a name we have never heard of before, we ought to substitute the famous "X" marks the spot. Just think how our noble Daily would profit by the institution. "Irate Student Fires At Professor With Water Pistol. Eighteen Nearby Students Overcome By Shock Or Contact With Water." Wouldn't that cause a swell sensation? Wouldn't that shove the half-baked write-ups of club meetings into their well-deserved limbo.

Think of the possibilities that this new state of affairs would create. "Machine Guns Mounted on Arts Building Roof As Students Clamor For Shorter Hours." "Professor Disfigures Student With Cutting Glance." "Arts and Engineering break off diplomatic Relations. Bill Gentlemen Challenges Grisdale to Duel. Both Parties Carry Appeal To Tennis Court." "Players' Club Den of Red Propaganda. President Hurl Bomb at Student Council Head." "Revue Torch Singer's Brains Blown Out By Maddened Co-ed. Giraffe With Tonsillitis Could Sing Better — Killer Claims."

But possibly we've allowed our fancy to run away with our better judgment. Perhaps life would become a little too strenuous. Bullet-proof vests are somewhat expensive, and it would be quite a nuisance to be obliged to carry about a gas mask as part and parcel of our educational paraphernalia. And then too, our dearly beloved C.O.T.C. would be faced with actual combat, and that would be terrible. Just think of it, they wouldn't have any time for ski-trips, or, if the Red element got the upper hand, for trip-skis.

A Plea

About this time, last year, we went on record as saying, that, in addition to a good five cent cigar, and co-ed cheer-leaders, this university needed a good Dirt Column. Not bad Dirt Column, but a good, clean, healthy purveyor of names that should, but didn't get into the news columns. And so we got a Dirt Column. It was a delightful, lively scavenging concern, and once even caused a ruddy blush to suffuse the manly cheeks of the campus statues. But as yet, it has not been reincarnated.

Dirt Dishes, where are ye? Shmoots, where art thou? Shades of the glorious past! Will those happy days never again be duplicated? We've all got to know what's going on behind the scenes. The Dirt Col is therefore intensely desiderated. Will our common want remain unfulfilled?

Gaga Saga

THE perennial attempts to locate literary ability among our undergrads, have the general effect of looking for a needle in a hay-stack; the latter activity having far more fascinating possibilities. The thrilling short story about Harwood and dear old Collegiate is a case in point. . . . into the murky gloom of a narrow intersection." Such pregnant phraseology is really as breath-taking as the climax is unexpected. (We knew after the first paragraph that our hero would be able to pay his fees.)

This much we must admit. The author gave good expression to the contemporary spirit, when he described the trials and tribulations of our Hero in scurrying together the necessary greenbacks with which to gain Education and Success. Naturally he gets both.

With the innovation of Saga Shadows, the watered stock of the Canadian Author's Ass'n begins to shoot skyward. Who knows, the Great Canadian Novel may yet be written within our gates, and think of the training afforded prospective literati of the Arts Undergraduate Journal. Personally, we view the future with great foreboding. This incipient competition renders our own position insecure. But it's all for the good of the cause. One thousand words, no more no less. Who has 'em? Come on, you students, show the disbelieving world that the average undergrad's vocabulary consists of more than twenty-three words and two damns.

OUR GALLIC NEIGHBOURS

L'Hebo-Laval (Quebec, Sept. 11, 1934)

THE FIRST issue for the present scholastic year contains good advice to readers and would-be contributors alike. Jean-Charles Bonenfant, the Editorial Secretary says he will publish all articles that are well written, and do not contain personalities nor any brand of foolish sentimentality. He entitles his article "Repetition" and jokingly starts it with the statement that he is forced to repeat what his predecessors have written in the past. Yet it makes, under his pen, quite palatable reading.

Students' Constitution

MOST of the issue is taken up by the publication in extenso of the Constitution of the newly incorporated Students Society of Laval University. 217 sections! Quite a Code! (There are more sections than in our new Dominion Companies Act). This beats all hollow our meagre little constitution of two pages! I thought only notaries were long-winded in their written elucubrations! (Unnecessary to state which sex is renowned for oral ones!)

L'Hebo-Laval, Sept. 29, 1934

Co-operation

WELCOME brothers! The Editorial chair announces that it will soon resume its comments on other student papers such as the "McGill Daily" and "Le Quartier Latin". There is no need for us to state that we will do our share in continuing the good relations we have established in Quebec.

"Le Quartier Latin" (Montreal) Oct. 11, 1934

THIS little weekly has come large this year. A new toilette too. Quite attractive I should say. As a frontispiece a crayon portrait of the new Rector, Mr. Olivier Maurault. The author, Chicoince, may be a good artist but he does not do justice to the charming personality of the new official. Yet high personages have no vanity, and the artist is probably forgiven by now!

Aim of Sport

I CULL from an interesting article by Jean-Claude Martin, "In Favor of Sports", the following conclusion:

"But the main point is the great lesson in energy that Sport affords; it creates a craving for action, which is the best antidote against indolence and apathy that the body and mind require alike. So long therefore as one does not seek that brutal athleticism which excludes ideals, and does look to it for a proper relaxation in the midst of his mental labours as a preparation for them, sport is one of the best incentives available for study. Let us here and now resolve to take up sports in a systematic manner and our national life will be the gainer."

International University Documentation

MR. EDOUARD MONTPETIT, extra-mural relations and Director of the University of Montreal made recently the following declaration:

"In a letter dated May 15th, 1934, Mr. Charley, the Rector of the University of Paris, wrote to our Rector asking our University to collaborate in an International University Documentation organization at Paris: photographs, drawings, medals, diplomas, programmes, posters, books, essays and theses. The documentation would be divided into several sections: History, Contradiction, Administration, Studies, Works, Scholarships and lodging."

Ancient Traditions

"WE PROPOSE, wrote Mr. Charley, to continue one of the oldest traditions of our University, dating back to the Middle Ages when our organization was an international centre of studies. From the 12th Century we had foreign schools: English, Danish, Swedish, German, Greek, Scotch, Lombard, etc."

Mr. Montpetit adds, that at the "Cité Universitaire" in Paris, a building is being erected to house this documentation. The International University Club will be installed there also, and will be opened within two years.

Civil Law Congress

THE JURISTS of the French tongue in the Province of Quebec have celebrated in an excellent manner the Four Hundredth Anniversary of the discovery of Canada by Jacques Cartier. They held a Congress of French Civil Law in Montreal, on the 30, 31 August, and the 1st of September. An important delegation came specially from France and other countries, and several English-speaking lawyers attended the sessions also.

The Convention was of a particular interest, on account of the Quebec Laws being modelled after the Code, Napoleon which has formed the basis of codification in several countries.

As pointed out by the Hon. Mr. Justice P. B. Mignault, former Judge of the Supreme Court of Canada, and for years lecturer at McGill, "the Quebec laws originated through the Edict of the Sovereign Council of Quebec of 1663, when Northern France was ruled by about 60 general or provincial 'customs', together with an immense number of local customs as well. The main Custom, that of Paris, was brought officially in New France in 1663."

Many distinguished legal authors from France read papers, including MM. Capitant, Demogue, and Josserand, who were granted the Honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws by the University of Montreal.

About 40 reports were presented, the reporters being distributed as follows: France 5, Belgium 1, Italy 1, Argentina 1, Guatemala 1, Haiti 1, Venezuela 1, Province of Quebec 29. This is the first Congress of the French Civil Law ever held in this Province, but others are in contemplation.

AN INTERVIEW

By G. W.

THE position of Soviet Russia has been, and still is, a frequent topic of discussion, generally from the political and economic point of view but seldom from any other. Therefore when Mr. A. Monckhouse gave an address on Russia at the People's Forum last Sunday, the writer determined to obtain information that would be of special interest to the students of this university. Overcoming some natural diffidence the scribe approached the speaker after the lecture and asked him as follows:

"You are a well-known engineer and lived in Russia many years; as a student at this university I am sure that many engineering students and also graduates would like to know, what chance for advancement is there in Russia for some of these young engineers?"

Pausing for a moment, Mr. Monckhouse replied: "As far as monetary reward is concerned, there is very little; because, although the salary paid is not bad one cannot use the Russian money in foreign countries."

"Don't the Soviets pay in gold roubles?" he was asked.

"Yes," was the reply, "but the government forbids the taking of gold out of the country. A position in Russia, however, presents a wonderful chance for gaining first-hand experience in engineering. Certainly if I were a young man I would take advantage of this opportunity."

"And how are living conditions there?"

"For the lover of Art there are many opportunities; there is the theatre, music, and so on."

"Are there any social activities, such as informal gatherings, receptions, and so forth?"

"Oh, yes, many."

"And what is the situation as regards comforts which we, in the Western world, consider everyday things?"

"Very bad," was the reply; "for one thing, the problem of housing in the large cities is an extremely serious one; there is much overcrowding. Again, even the most simple, everyday things are over there considered real luxuries and very difficult to obtain. Life, in that sense, is very hard and rather unpleasant. There is no question, however, that it is an interesting country, and one that offers a field for interesting experience to 'young engineers.'"

It was interesting to see, face to face, the man who was a year or two ago, the centre of one of the most sensational trials for sabotage in modern Russia, the cause of many diplomatic exchanges between the British and Soviet governments, the subject of huge headlines in the leading Canadian newspapers. Judging from personal appearance, no one would for a moment think or believe that this man could have committed, or even have been implicated in, the act of sabotage of which he and several others had been accused.

Bartholomew's Hospital. He established the first Canadian Fellowship at McGill University, then journeyed to Toronto, London, Winnipeg, and Vancouver, establishing centres in each of those cities. When Dr. Guinness left Canada to carry on his work in Australia, he was followed as Dominion Secretary by Kenneth Hooker, a graduate of Cambridge University.

The Rev. Noel Palmer accepted the same position a year later, and remained in office until the end of the 1933 session. He was, in turn, succeeded by Dr. Hill, a graduate of Western University. The latest holder of this position is Stacey Woods, B.A., B.Th., who was appointed this fall. Meanwhile, the organization has been steadily expanding, and at present, over two hundred branches are located in Normal and High schools, as well as in Colleges, throughout the Dominion.

The purpose of the Fellowship is to show Christ to fellow students, and to strengthen the belief of those who know Him. This purpose is achieved through the various Bible study groups, prayer meetings, and other such activities of the Fellowship.

The business of the meeting concerned the election of committees to look after the annual dance and the annual banquet. Gilbert Shurman was elected chairman of the dance committee and John Chamard the chairman of the banquet committee. Bill Boyd of Harvard will direct the athletic fortunes of the dental students and Malcolm Golden, also of Harvard, will abet him. A proposal was put on the floor to the effect that an intra faculty basketball league be established. The matter will be investigated, it being felt that the necessary gymnasium accommodations are lacking.

The subject will be "An Economic Study of World Jewry." The work and discussions of the Group will follow the pattern of that of similar groups on the Campus.

Further suggestions from the membership of the Circle, will be welcomed at the meeting. The Committee which drew up the above-mentioned plans consists of Evelyn Elkin, Beatrice Kleinberg, Phil Vineberg, Chas. Rosen, Abe Gruber, and Ben Shecter.

Dr. Norman Viner
The Maccabean Circle reconvened for the first time this session last Sunday, in the Union Ballroom, for an informal reception, and to meet their Honorary President, Dr. Norman Viner. Between 130 and 140 people attended. Dr. Viner mentioned some of the incidents in the early history of the Maccabean Circle, when it was first founded in 1905. One of the main activities of the Circle in those days was the upkeep of the Book Fund from which books were bought and donated to the University Library. It is planned to revive the Fund sometime this year, and add to the Maccabean collection of books now in the Redpath Library some of the best of recent volumes on topic of special interest.

Of Hume he spoke as follows: "Viewed from the citadel of Christianity, his philosophy becomes mere sophistry and his rocks are but weak straw."

The writer of many books and essays, he was in the opinion of the speaker, best known for his work on geology, writing of it in such a vivid and splendid style that even the layman was fascinated as he read the story of nature itself. Other prominent campus lights were then sought, but they were not at home, apparently showing that the Date Bureau is no necessity as far as they are concerned.

Slants On Sports

By A. G.

IF you ever get to worrying about the alleged brutality of Ted Reeves' Tricolor grid squad, wander down to the Lower Campus most any afternoon this month and get an eyeful of that phase of lawful lunacy known as intercollegiate rugby, compared with which a Queen's-McGill game resembles so much boiled spinach. The slaughter generally commences before the game, since none of the players ever has enough foresight to bring down his own equipment, and the stock of available gear is quite incommensurate, to say the least, not only is it incommensurate, but what there is of it dates back to before Confederation. After the attire assault has taken place, those who are dressed for further action stagger over to the field and practice signals for a full five minutes, while referee Johnny Bennett, who evidently doesn't get enough exercise playing for the Montreal Football Club, tries desperately to clear the playing space of drooling infants, perambulators and haughty governesses, assisted by the rabid supporters of both factions—We surmise there are two factions, since of uniform there is no sign whatever, except perhaps that all the players wear pants which are uniformly three sizes too large. The game generally gets underway just as dusk is falling, having been scheduled for 2:45, and is over either when sixty minutes has gone by or when nobody rises from the turf to take his position on the line. Rules are strictly adhered to depending on the visibility, although referees have been known to count the men on each team before every play, due to the rapidity with which bodies are borne off and substitutions effected. For a person who carries heavy insurance and is looking for a subtle way of committing suicide, we recommend intercollegiate rugby without hesitation.

WHATEVER happened to those female cheer-leaders they promised us? Nobody seems to know. Does anybody care? Well, we do. We think it's a peach of an idea and if Chief Cheer Leader Vaud and Assistant Chief Cheer Leader Freeman think we're fooling, they can ask us any time they like to help them put the idea across. We mean if they need anybody to phone up candidates or feed them raw eggs for their voices or anything like that, we'd be willing to cut our study periods in half to aid the cause. Of course, fifteen minutes a day wouldn't be of much use, but it's something anyway. A boy of energetic female cheer-leaders would have done much to soothe the weighted heart at the Queen's game last week. Even when McGill was ahead, there wasn't much noise to speak of, but when the talented toe of Mr. Edward Barnabe put the Tricolor one up, a passerby might have thought the Stadium was entertaining an Armistice Day Convention of the Deaf and Dumb War Veterans. Would co-eds be able to rouse the studes from their wonted lethargy? Well, the only way to find out is to try it. A bright suggestion reached us recently anent the type of uniform which might be worn by the Boisterous Babes. In brief, we add in very brief, it was a Red and White sweater. That's all right as far as it goes. I mean, these autumn days are generally pretty cool, and the idea might run into a lot of expense, what with having to supply all the players with blinders and everything. Anyway, let's get the girls out on the field first. We can worry later about what they'll wear.

FOR the benefit of 98% of the student body, roughly speaking, this department takes great pleasure in pointing out the fact that those queer-looking gravel patches bounded on all sides by bright wire fencing and on the North and West by the Redpath Library, and MacTavish Street, respectively, are the college tennis courts. The remark is engendered primarily by the approaching intercollegiate net tournament, which commences tomorrow on the aforementioned queer gravel patches, and secondly by the fact that the tennis championship of McGill was contested last Saturday morning by the Messrs. Bob Murray and Rock Robertson in the presence of a crowd estimated at 53 people by the official Daily estimator. By the time Mr. Murray had stroked his customary piliomatic way to victory over the erratic Mr. Robertson, the official estimator had added 19 persons to his previous list, making a grand total of 72 witnesses to a match which had as its participants a man who is one of the finest players in the country and another who is generally capable of extending him to his best game. The intercollegiate matches were held in Kingston last year, being won by the Red racquetters, who, as we have reminded you, are defending their crown this season on their home courts. Are there more than 72 tennis enthusiasts in this university? We'll let you know after the tournament.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY... a small college in Kingston with a team in the Intercollegiate Rugby Union... is faced with a dilemma. Four members of that team are alleged to belong to an international fraternity, which allegiance is strictly forbidden at the institution, under pain of suspension from "political, social and athletic participation for at least one year." The men involved, Hamlin, Glass, Earle and Dafee by name, await with trepidation a meeting, to be held some time this week, of the special court which will decide their fate. About ten days ago, the captain of the grid squad, John Kostulak, who was to act also in the capacity of president of the Student Court, resigned from the latter position, claiming stress of studies or inflamed tonsils or some such excuse, according to a Kingston scribe who accompanied the team here last week, who also vouchsafed some inside dope to the effect that the students would be asked this week in a special plebiscite to postpone action until the football season is over. Heavy drummer! We await the outcome with trembling typewriter.

ALL is well up at the Stadium, says Frank Gorman. He ought to know, too, being manager of the senior football squad. It seems that the Shaughnessy Shocktroops are concentrating on some new plays for the game with Western next week. This may be an indication that the forward pass is to be relegated to the background in future games. Or maybe it's just some strategy to get the opposition sleeping at the switch. Whatever it is, the fact still remains that this department of the game was woefully weak last Saturday, for which most of the blame, if blame there really is, should be placed upon the very shoulders of the receivers. Smith and Riddell got 'em there, but very few of them were caught, even when they were right in the targets' hands. However, Western should present little opposition to the Redmen under any circumstances. Smith, Degan and Hornig, who were tossed around plenty by the Tricolor tacklers over the week-end, are slowly getting back their health, with the former two taking the occasional ray treatment, while the latter, evidently spurning such assistance, was out last night working with the more fit members of the squad. The whole gang was put through a pretty stiff signal drill followed by some light scrimmaging among each other.

Intermediate Red Squad To Defend Gridders In Tennis Title Tomorrow Action Today

Meet Strong Eastward Squad At Stadium Tonight

FRESHMEN PREPARE FOR BISHOP'S GAME

Powerful Team Plays This Afternoon at 2:30

MOLSON STADIUM will be the battlefield of two football games today, when both the Intermediates and Fresh gridmen go gunning for the first league victory of the season. The Freshman team meets Bishop's in the afternoon at 2:30, while the Intermediates take on Eastward in an evening encounter at eight o'clock.

Smarting under the sting of two defeats, the Intermediates will be out to avenge the 14-7 reverse which they received at the hands of a powerful and experienced Eastward Squad, in their initial encounter. With prospects of real football weather, the Redmen should make a creditable appearance, for their two league games have proved definitely that they are not mudders. Both games were played under adverse conditions, with a steady rain beating down upon the gridiron turning it into a veritable sea of mud.

Ready for Fray

Coach St. Germain has had his charges hard at work the past week, smoothing out their plays and preparing a formidable defence against the strong Eastward aggregation. Besides strengthening the blocking tactics of his linemen, the coach has been brushing up his aerial attack which was quite ineffective against the Eastward team.

With the stars of the first game, Matheson, Walker, Savage and Bishop in the line-up, Coach St. Germain will present a vastly-improved squad which should give Eastward plenty of opposition.

Fresh After Title

In the afternoon encounter, Dunc Anderson's Freshmen entertain the Bishop's gridmen, who fresh from a win over Loyola, are out to take the lead in the race for the championship. Though the Red freshmen held the edge over Loyola in their first game, the Maroon team managed to eke out a 5-1 victory by taking advantage of costly errors by the Frosh.

The highly-touted Freshman footballers proved a disappointment in the Loyola game, for they are one of the strongest Frosh squads to don football equipment in several years. However, with a week's heavy practice behind them, Coach Anderson has succeeded in rounding his team into form, and with a hard-hitting line and a fast backfield, the Freshmen should prove a difficult hurdle for the Bishop's squad.

Intermediates: Law, Bishop, Matheson, Walker, Doheny, Black, Fleming, Deakin, Lang, Gurd, Savage, Henana, Burill, Dawson, Gould, Latour, Lowles, Scott, Starr, Wagner.

Entries Complete For Track Meet Here On Friday

Queen's List Completes Roster For Starry Gathering

WITH THE arrival of the Queen's entry list for Friday's big track meet, cinder affairs are assuming a more sensational aspect. The Tricolor team boasts only eleven members, while Varsity are bringing down eighteen and McGill are carrying the full nineteen. Newcomers to the Kingston team include Cunningham, a hurdler and broad jumper from Ottawa Glebe Collegiate, and Dennis, a high jumper from Bloor St. Collegiate in Toronto. Bill Fritz, victor in the 440 and 220 last year, is entered in the century dash also on Friday. The squad also includes two members of the senior football team, namely Johnny Edwards, a pole vaulter, and Abe Zvonkin in the weight events.

Notable among the Varsity newcomers is Caldwell, who captured both sprint events in the Toronto Inter-faculty Meet in fast times, and who should prove a worthy adversary of Goodfellow, the McGill standard-bearer in these events. The Blue team also includes two capable middle distance men in Campbell and Rankin. West-heuser bettered the McGill Meet distances in both discus and shot put events, as did Cooper in the pole vault and broad jump. Accordingly, Varsity would seem to be the team to beat in Friday's meet.

Redmen Determined

Among the Redmen who are determined to overcome this Blue challenge are the Empire Games triumvirate, Edwards, Sampson, and Worrall. None the less determined are Captain Melkejohn and Morgan, the weights men, Amaron, Stote, Goodfellow, and the other McGill representatives, for the cup emblematic of Intercollegiate track supremacy has rested within

Varsity, Queen's, R. M. C. And U. of M. Compete Here

Favourite Contestants Are Murray, Connolly, Hermant, and Leclerc

TENNIS stars from Toronto, Queen's, and R.M.C. will arrive in town tonight to compete with U. of M. and McGill in the Intercollegiate Tennis Championship Tournament which will be held tomorrow, Friday, and Saturday on the McGill courts. Bob Murray, Provincial Champ, will lead the Redmen, present title-holders, against heavy batteries headed by Ed Connolly, of Queen's, Syd Hermant, of U. of T., and Georges Leclerc from U. of M.

McGill Defends Title

The Blue contingent includes four veterans of last year's encounter, which was held at Kingston, while McGill has three of last year's squad in Bob Murray, "Rock" Robertson, and Fabre Surveyer, who, together with Bill O'Brien, will play in the singles. The singles entries will also call for Syd. Hermant, Bill Piggott, Crowson, and Eaton, from the Queen City; Ed Connolly, Omer Chaput, Bernard Fortier, and Lorne Hunter, representing the Tri-colour; and Georges Leclerc, Anthonie Valois, Gerard Casgrain and Bellanger from Montreal University.

In the doubles, Murray will team up with Robertson, and probably Surveyer with Harry Schwartz, to take the court for the home team. From University of Montreal Leclerc and Valois, Belanger and Jean Beausaillen will pair off. Connolly with Chaput, Fortier with Hunter represent the Tri-colour while Hermant-Piggott and Black-Eaton will be the Blue contenders.

Murray McGill Ace

Bob Murray took the McGill crown last week, taking Robertson in the finals. In the same tournament, O'Brien was a semi-finalist, beating Surveyer in the quarter finals. The other semi-finalist, Karl Wiele, is unfortunately a partial student and is therefore ineligible for the team.

Syd. Hermant, ranking number one for Varsity was taken over in finals of the Toronto competition by Black in an upset in the finals, who is playing in the doubles. The mainstay of the Queen's squad, Ed. Connolly, defeated Bob Murray last year at the championships at Kingston, in a hard-fought five set semi-final match.

"Rock" Robertson, our number two player, comes from Vancouver, where he is third ranking player. Of the team from the Royal Military College, little is as yet known, but they usually send a fairly strong contingent.

Elimination Tournament

This will be an elimination tournament in which each team will enter four contestants in the singles, and

BOB MURRAY

McGill Tennis ace, who leads Redmen in defence of title against Varsity, Queen's, U. of M. and R.M.C.

Rugger Game Today

McGill ruggerites meet the strong Bank of Montreal team today at 3:30 p.m. On Saturday they meet Varsity, the present title-holders, at Montreal in the first of a home and home game series.

Will the following men report at the Tennis Courts at 3:00 this afternoon: Wakefield, Romons, Goleman, Angel, Horwood, Rabnit, Smith, Gilda, Williams, Munroe, Scott, Duffus, Savage, Hamilton, Stapleton.

two pairs in the doubles. One point is given for each win and the victor in finals will credit his team with two points. The draw will be made tonight at a meeting of the Intercollegiate Tennis Association in the McGill Union at 8:30 at which the teams are expected to attend. Marcel Rainville, Canadian Davis Cup star, will be the referee. Charlie Leslie, former McGill captain, has been appointed Umpire. In tennis circles here, it is acknowledged that Murray will win the singles, but as it is aggregate points which will name the winning team, the outcome of the tournament is still a speculation. All competitors must turn out on the McTavish Street courts at nine o'clock sharp tomorrow morning, it was stated by the tournament committee.

PLUMBER GRIDDERS TAKE FIRST GAME EASILY YESTERDAY

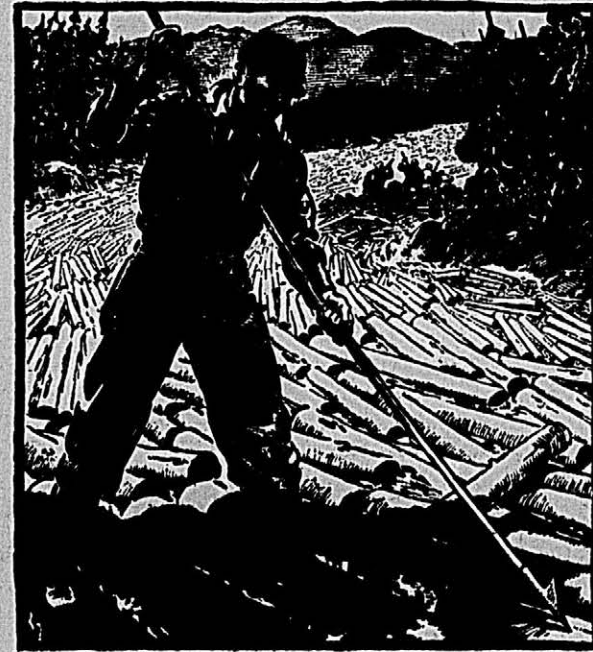

Arts and Engineering played their first interfaculty game yesterday afternoon, with the Plumbers winning easily by the score of 21-0. After three minutes of play, Christie of the Engineers, scored a touchdown on a plunge. Arts held well after that until the third quarter, when a series of forward passes and an onside kick netted a second touch, this time by Carter. The last quarter saw Mace, Gillmour, Percy, Smythe, Bourne, the outstanding player of the game, go Elliot, and Powell. These players must around Arts' end twice for majorbe at the "Y" pool at 8:15 sharp.

scores. The first touch of the game was converted, while the other attempts were unsuccessful.

For Arts, Bourne, Macdonald and Stevenson were the best, particularly Bourne whose tackling left little to be desired. Mace was by far the leading player of the Engineers, only his own team-mates prevented him scoring at least once more. Carter and Christie also played well for the winning team.

Red Mermen Oppose "Y"

The McGill water polo team will play their first game of the season when they enter the water against the Y.M.C.A. swimmers in the Central "Y" pool tonight. The game will start at 8:00. Members of the Red squad are Carter, Gillmour, Percy, Smythe, Bourne, the outstanding player of the game, go Elliot, and Powell. These players must around Arts' end twice for majorbe at the "Y" pool at 8:15 sharp.

Address By Drew Features Sunday People's Forum

Subject of Speech Titled "Patriotism and Profit"

Special announcement is made of the fact that Lieutenant-Colonel George A. Drew will address the People's Forum next Sunday evening on "Patriotism and Profit." This attraction is made the more so in view of the fact that Lieutenant-Colonel Drew has become embroiled in a political controversy with the Ontario Government that is raising ructions in that province and drawing huge editorials in some of their leading newspapers. In view of the terrific race for armaments that is going on among the different nations of the world, and also because of the startling revelations that were made in Washington about the international alliances of munition makers, what Colonel Drew has to say on the subject is of particular significance. That this armament race is a highly dangerous thing, fraught with explosive elements that may burst under our feet at any minute, there is no doubt. The example of 1914 and its terrible aftermath is there before us.

Colonel Drew, in view of the positions he holds, is particularly fitted to discuss the question. He is Commander of the Eleventh Field Brigade, Canadian Artillery; President of the Toronto Branch of the League of Nations Society, as well as the occupant of many other important offices. A member of the fighting forces makes him by experience a realist as to war.

Among his war books are the following: "The Truth About the War"; "Canada's Part in the Great War"; "Canada's Fighting Airmen."

He has also written much on disarmament. His belief is that the question should be treated on a practical basis; and that one of the most effective ways is by ending the private production of armaments. During the last year Colonel Drew has addressed large audiences both in the United States and in Canada.

Soccer Gossip by Hat Trick

THE next item of interest is the interfaculty schedule which gets under way this Thursday when the Arts-Commerce eleven meets Engineering. The complete schedule follows:

Thursday, Oct. 18th — Arts-Commerce vs. Engineering.

Friday, Oct. 19th — Law-Medicine vs. Theology.

RULES of the games are as follows:

All games will commence at 4.20 (sharp) and will last for two 30 minute periods.

No team can field more than two regular playing members of the senior intercollegiate team although this rule may be waived at the consent of managers of both teams.

OFFICIAL faculty managers have been appointed as follows: Engineering, L. Rivett; Arts-Commerce, G. Luxton; Theology, J. Lynn; Law et al. L. Smart; Macdonald, A. Flood.

and Secretary. Assistants to any or all of these posts may be appointed at the discretion of the Producer.

The Costumes and Makeup positions are open to women only; the Secretaryship to men or women; and the others are generally filled by men although careful consideration will be given to applications from capable women.

Last year's Revue was in the form of a musical comedy, entitled "From Bad To Verse." It proved a great success although this was the first time such a type of production had been attempted. It comprised in the main a satire on campus affairs, starring among others Jack Waud and Pat Beatts.

Correspondence

The Editor,
McGill Daily:

Sir:—
Now that the fall season is come, we shall soon be swamped by numberless social activities in the form of bridge and card parties, dances, "charities bawls," all of which have as their object (or so it is alleged, anyway) the alleviation of the lot of the "dear popah."

Now these activities in themselves are in no way harmful; they present an excellent opportunity for spending a pleasant evening as well as of showing off the latest New York or Paris importation. But when people imagine that these little, scattered, almost puny efforts will solve the great problem of poverty and social distress, the chronic sickness called unemployment, they are living in a fool's paradise. The situation would be highly comical, if it were not above all so tragic.

Far more just, and more effective would it be if, instead, they examined and studied the conditions of those employed in the business and manufacturing plants of their kinsmen or kinswomen; and having studied that, try to help solve the question of what is a fair and decent living wage. Let them read the evidence submitted before the Stevens Committee in Ottawa, where the facts bare were so striking and sensational that even such Conservative newspapers as the Montreal Star and Gazette published them on the front pages. Let them at least the elements of economics, finally, let them use their education, their energy and their influence in bringing about a state of things (whether through legislation or publicity or both) where thousands who are now living on the ragged edge of starvation will have a chance to enjoy a fairly decent proportion of the products in this world.
